

[illegible]

A TV system includes TV station channels and non-TV station signals that are dynamically assigned channel numbers, just as TV station signal frequencies are, by a TV service provider. The non-TV station signal channels are treated just as the TV station channels are, and possess all the properties of the TV station channels, such as ratings, lock-outs, etc.